History

The Kodandaramaswamy Temple is located at Haravu village in Pandavapura taluk, Mandya District. The temple is a large structure, built in Prakara. It is built on rectangular plan, and has a girbhagriha, sukhanasi, a Navaranga, and a large open mukhamantapa in front, which is a pillared hall built at a later period. The temple's outer walls are plain, and only the kosthas are found. The vimana is also dilapidated, and the Prakara wall too. The temple has a cult image of Rama Lakshmana and Sita in sthanaka posture.
