History

This east-facing temple comprises a garbhagraha, antarala and sabha mandapa. The garbhagraha contains a Sivalinga. The ceiling of the antarala has Padma motif. On either side of the antarala are jalavataiyanas. There are four free standing pillars in the sabhamandapa. Inside the sabhamandapa are devakosthas bearing sculptures of Sivalings, Veerabhadra, Veeranasimha and Mukambika. The exterior of the temple is white washed. The superstructure of the temple is of Kadambanagara or phamsana form. It seems that the temple belongs to 12th century A. D.
