History

The Hanumantheshwara temple is located in Bannuru in T.Narasipura taluk, Mysuru district. Bannuru was an ancient agrahara, known as Jnanchaturverimangala. Among the main temples here, Hanumanteshwara Temple seems to be quite older than the others as the pillars of its Navaranga are in cylindrical style with cushion capitals. The girbhagriha has a big linga, said to be established by Hanuman.

The temple has a large prakara, obviously built during the Vijayanagara period. The Chola king Rajaraja-I, gave a few grants to the construction of this temple
