History

Byatarayaswamy Temple is located at Doddapalanahalli village, Koratagere Taluk, Tumakuru district

The temple consists of a garbhagriha and a hall. A dvajastambha is placed in front of the temple. A big boulder on the back wall of garbhagriha is worshipped as god. The walls are plain, without any decoration inside or outside. These and the roof are built of stone slabs and the superstructure i.e. sikhara is of brick and mortar. This temple seems to have some characteristics of the Ganga period. So it can be dated to c. 10th century A.D.
