History

This dvikuta temple comprises two garbhagraha, antarala and a mukhamandapa. The garbhagrahas have trisakha door frames. The lalatabimas of the two garbhagrahas have tiny Gajalakshmi bimba. There is a Kakshasana around the mukhamandapa. There is an inscription connected with this temple dated 1189 A.D. It states that the temple was built by Chowdisetti, grandfather of an officer called Shankara Swami.
