History

This is a trikuta temple. It comprises three garbhagrhas, each with an antaralas and a common sabhamandapa. The north facing garbhagrha enshrined a Sivalinga. Its doorframe is well decorated. On either side of it are saiva dvarapalas. The east and west facing garbhagrahas have Pitha without Linga. The doorframes of these garbhagrahas resemble the door frame of the north garbhagraha. In the sabhamandapa are four free standing pillars. In the mukhamandapa are two free standing pillars. The temple stands on an adhisthana. The exterior wall of the temple is decorated.
