History

This east facing temple consists of a garbhagraha, antarala, sabhamandapa and mukhamandapa. In the garbhagraha is a Sivalinga, locally called Somanatha. The doorframe of the garbhagraha is panchashakha. The sculpture of the Lalatabimba is unidentified. The antarala has tri-shakha doorframe. The ceiling is decorated with a Padma motif. There are four freestanding pillars in the sabhamandapa. Inside the sabhamandapa are six devakosthas. The mukhamandapa has fallen. The original doorframe is replaced by wooden doors. The Kakshasana of the Mukhamanda has fallen. The exterior plain walls have bhadra - salilantara. On the exterior walls of the garbhagraha are three devakosthas, the western and the southern being in a dilapidated condition.
