

23. Ek-Minar Masjid

Place - Raichur

District : Raichur
Taluk : Raichur
Locality : Raichur

Geo – Coordinates:
Lat : 16.203371 °N
Long : 77.352605°E

History

As per a Persian inscription on the threshold of the mosque, it was constructed by one Amber. The pillars supporting the roof of the entrance are all Chalukyan pillars. It has only one minaret, as its name itself suggests. The minaret, about 65 feet high and 13 feet in diameter, is built in Persian style and is identical in form with the Chand Minar at Daulatabad erected in 1445 A.D by Ala-ud-din Bahmani and the minaret of the famous college of Mahmud Gawan at Bidar built during 1472 A.D. It consists of two storeys; each furnished with windows and surrounded by projecting galleries girded with stone balustrades, gradually tapers from bottom to top and has, at the top, a round dome in the Bahmani style. A winding staircase leads up to the top storey. Apart from its architectural peculiarities, the mosque, as the inscriptions in the building show, is the oldest place of Muslim worship in the town.

3D Point Cloud

Plan